As a couple, do you have a plan on how you're going to make money together?

As a couple, you should have a 1 year plan, 3 year plan, 5 year plan & a 10 year plan on making money and hitting preset financial goals together.

Most couples depend solely on their jobs as their means of financial stability. A job is a great starting place but a terrible place to finish. Each year as a couple, their goal should be to add passive income producing assets.

Passive income producing assets are things that they BUY that generate monthly income for them whether they're there or not.

Here are a few examples of passive income producing assets: Vending machines, ATMs, Ice Vending Machines, Laundromats, Rental properties, Amazon stores, Books or E-books, & REITs (Real Estate Investment Trusts).

Every couple should be focusing on acquiring things listed above each year to grow their income so that they have options to do whatever they choose in life as a family.

Did you know that MONEY problems is the #2 reason for Divorce in America?

Money arguments are the second leading cause of divorce, behind infidelity. High levels of debt and poor communication lead to stress and anxiety when it comes to finances.

Money-related issues are frequently cited as a reason for divorce. We asked experts to name the biggest money-related reasons couples get divorced. They include mismatched financial priorities, unexpected major expenses, and discovering a partner's secret spending habits.

There's a good reason for this: Money and stress very often go hand in hand, whether it's because of an overextended budget, an unexpected financial emergency, or even the discovery of your spouse's secret credit card. And financial issues don't discriminate — they can unravel marriages between wealthy couples and couples in major debt alike.

TOP 10 SECRETS TO A HAPPY MARRIAGE: PART 1!

Secret #1: Spend time together and talk more to each other!

Secret #2: Show your appreciation to each other no matter how big or small!

12 signs that he's the one to have a relationship with (Part1)

Believe it or not, most bad relationships can be traced back to the fact that you chose the wrong person to enter into a relationship in the first place. So here's 12 tips to help you pick better:

Tip #1: He's a gentleman

We don't just mean that he pulls out your chair or opens doors for you, although that is nice. Is he thoughtful and attentive to your needs? How does he treat people with less power than him, like servers at restaurants or the janitor? Does he show people respect, including you? If you can answer these questions with 'yes' than you're heading in the right direction!

Tip #2: He's got his life together

We're not saying he should be the PhD-holding CEO of a Fortune 500 company by the age of 30. But any guy worth dating should at least have basic adult skills (he should be able to do his laundry, cook, keeping his apartment decent & clean), be presentable, and have some idea of what he wants to do with his life and be actively working towards it. You're signing up to be his partner, not his maid.
